Manager's Comments

For the month of February, the Al Mal UAE Equity Fund was up 3.9%, versus the MSCI UAE Index up 2.9% and the Al Mal UAE Falcon Index up 9.5%.

Local imposition of margining restrictions against share lending, along with regional political concerns and a backdrop of poor global market performance, meant that the rally did not fully take flight in February. We foresee that the market will continue to be characterized by sideways trading in the absence of near-term catalysts.

Our emphasis continues to be on real estate and related industries given a recent run up in land prices in the UAE, and particularly Abu Dhabi. UAE banks with small to medium size capital are also of interest given a focus on growing their capital base through rights issue or mergers. We also continue to view the opportunity in Saudi Arabia as attractive given the growth prospects, particularly in the petrochemical and banking sectors.
